WB, TN SEAL THE POLL DEAL

Both states registered record voter turnout in the elections held under the shadow of allegations of mass disenfranchisement of voters through the Election Commission's controversial SIR exercise

KOLKATA/CHENNAI

Voters turned up in large numbers to exercise their franchise in the elections to the Tamil Nadu Assembly and 152 constituencies of the West Bengal Assembly on Thursday.

Amid sporadic violence, intimidation and assaults, West Bengal recorded brisk voting in the first phase with a turnout of 91.46%. Tamil Nadu registered approximately 84.41% voter turnout.

In West Bengal, the first phase of the Assembly elections, covering 152 out of the total 294 constituencies, saw 91.46 per cent of the 3.60 crore electors turn up to vote.

The voter turnout is among the highest in recent electoral history of the state. Notably, the elections were held under the shadow of allegations of mass disenfranchisement of voters through the Election Commission's controversial SIR exercise.

Multiple districts of Bengal reported exceptionally high voter turnout figures, underscoring an energised electorate, amid the shadow of allegations of massive disenfranchisement of voters through the Election Commission's controversial SIR exercise. Polling in 16 districts began at 7 am amid tight security to decide the electoral fate of 1,478 candidates, including 167 women, in 152 constituencies of the 294-strong state Assembly. Dakshin Dinajpur emerged as the frontrunner with 81.49% voter turnout, followed closely by Paschim Medinipur at 81.07%, Jhargram at 81.04%, and Birbhum at 80.22%.

Tamil Nadu, while trailing behind West Bengal in overall turnout, still posted encouraging numbers across its districts. About 82.24% of the 5.73 crore eligible voters exercised their franchise in the election to the 234-member strong Tamil Nadu Assembly, a record turnout. People voted in 75,064 polling stations in 33,133 locations to decide the fate of 4,023 candidates. Namakkal led the state with 76.43%, closely followed by Karur at 76.08%, Salem at 75.79%, Erode at 75.61%, and Tiruppur at 75.38%.

May 4 will be TMC's expiry date: Modi

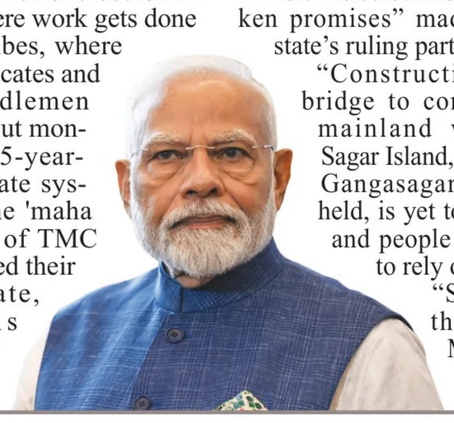
'Bumper voter turnout signals regime change in Bengal'

PARGANA (WB)

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Thursday said May 4, when votes will be counted, would mark the "expiry" of the "TMC's 15-year-old syndicate system and maha jungle raj" in West Bengal.

Addressing a rally at Pargana district's Kakdwip Stadium under the Mathurapur Assembly constituency, he claimed that the massive poll turnout in the state indicated that the TMC's regime of 'bhoy' (fear) was "surely getting defeated" by the 'bharosa' (trust) the BJP has promised.

"There's not one sector in Bengal where work gets done without bribes, where TMC syndicates and their middlemen don't take cut money. That 15-year-old syndicate system and the 'maha jungle raj' of TMC have reached their expiry date, which is May 4," Modi said.



Holding the Mamata Banerjee dispensation responsible for making "false promises and betraying people", the prime minister listed out a set of "broken promises" made by the state's ruling party.

"Construction of a bridge to connect the mainland with the Sagar Island, where the Gangasagar Mela is held, is yet to take off, and people still have to rely on ferries.

"Similarly, the Ghatal Master plan to curb floods is a non-starter, and the district-based food parks and projects to tackle river bank erosion are yet to see the light of the day," Modi said.

The prime minister alleged that the TMC "not only stops the implementation of central projects, it also gobbles up the Centre's money meant for development projects". "This can only be stopped once you have a BJP CM in the state," he added.

Modi accused the TMC of "collaborating with the Congress" to derail his government's bid to implement 33% women's reservation in legislatures in 2029 in the Lok Sabha.

Cong has crossed 'red line', warn Muslim religious leaders

BENGALURU

A coalition of Muslim religious leaders in Bengaluru has issued a stern warning to the ruling Congress government in Karnataka, asserting that the party has crossed a 'red line' with recent expulsions of its leaders and demanded immediate "reinstatement".

They expressed their resentment over the party expelling MLC Abdul Jabbar and removing MLC Naseer Ahmed as the chief minister's political secretary over alleged "anti-party" activities during the April 9 Davangere South bypolls. "The action against its Muslim leaders is not an isolated administrative decision but a reflection of a deeper pattern, one that signals selective targeting and shrinking space for Muslim leadership," members of a council of Ulemas, Imams, Khateebs and institutional leaders from across the state alleged during a press meet. Stating Muslims were stakeholders and not spectators, the council members reminded that their mandate was based on trust and a shared vision for inclusive governance. "Today, the trust has eroded. We demand reinstatement of our leaders and policy correction as the Hijab issue is unresolved and there has been no review of the 4% reservation," they rued.

SHOOT AND KILL MINE-LAYERS: TRUMP

WASHINGTON

President Donald Trump on Thursday said he has ordered the U.S. Navy "to shoot and kill any boat" that is laying mines in the Strait of Hormuz.

"There is to be no hesitation," Trump wrote in a Truth Social post.

The president added that he is ordering U.S. minesweepers to continue clearing the strait "at a tripled up level!"

The post shows the US ratcheting up tensions with Iran over the vital oil-shipping route, which has been largely choked off since the war began in late February.

Trump has aggressively pushed Tehran to fully reopen the strait as part of a shaky ceasefire, which was set to expire this week before being unilaterally extended by the president.

The US has imposed a retaliatory naval blockade on Iranian ports in the region, in an effort to force Tehran to loosen its grip on the waterway and come to the negotiating table.

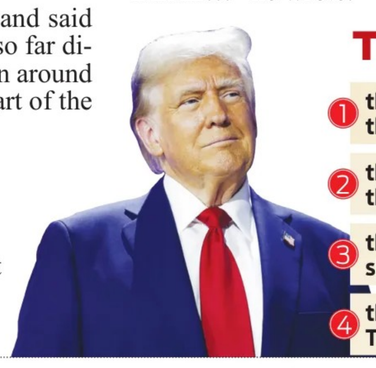
US Central Command said overnight that it has so far directed 31 ships to turn around or return to port as part of the blockade.

'America, not Iran, calling shots in Strait'

Trump insists that America, not Iran, is calling the shots in the strait. "We have total control over the Strait of Hormuz," he wrote in another Truth Social post later Thursday morning.

"No ship can enter or leave without the approval of the United States Navy. It is 'Sealed up Tight,' until such time as Iran is able to make a DEAL!!!" he wrote.

Less than 15 minutes later, Trump approvingly reposted a Washington Post opinion piece titled, "Trump doesn't need a deal to get what he wants from Iran." "Very true!!!" Trump wrote. Tanker traffic remains far below pre-war levels in the strait, which normally serves as the pathway for 20% of the world's oil.



TRUMP ORDERS...

1. the US Navy "to shoot and kill any boat" that is laying mines in the Strait of Hormuz.
2. the US minesweepers to continue clearing the strait "at a tripled up level!".
3. the Navy not to allow entry or exit of any ships without its approval.
4. the Navy to keep the Hormuz 'Sealed up Tight,' until Iran is able to make a DEAL!!!".

Indians now won't need airport transit visa in France

PARIS

The French Embassy in India on Thursday said that from April 10 2026, Indian nationals possessing an ordinary passport are no longer required to hold an airport transit visa (ATV) when passing through the international zone of airports located in French territory.

It said, "This measure applies to passengers remaining in the international zone during a layover at a French airport en route to a third country."

In a post on X the Embassy wrote, "As of 10 April 2026, holders of ordinary Indian passports no longer require an Airport Transit Visa (ATV) when transiting through the international zone of any airport in France, as announced by President Macron during his recent India visit."

As per reports, updated rules have been incorporated into the official France-Visas platform, reflecting the new and smoother procedure for Indian travellers.

The development is expected to simplify travel, reduce costs and ease planning for Indian passengers using key European airports as transit hubs, making long-haul journeys smoother and more accessible.

Respect all views except WhatsApp University: SC in Sabarimala case

NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Thursday said it respected the perspectives of eminent persons and jurists but advised circumspection against information circulating through "WhatsApp University", which cannot be treated as credible or accepted.

A nine-judge Constitution bench led by Chief Justice of India Surya Kant made the observations while hearing petitions related to discrimination against women at religious places, including the Sabarimala Temple in Keralam, and on the ambit and scope of religious freedom practiced by multiple faiths.

The bench also comprised Justices BV Nagarathna, MM Sundresh, Ahsanuddin Amanullah, Aravind Kumar, Augustine George Masih, Prasanna B Varale, R Mahadevan, and Joymalya Bagchi.

Senior advocate Neeraj Kishan Kaul, representing the head of the Dawoodi Bohra community, referred to an article written by Congress leader Shashi Tharoor. The bench was informed that the Congress leader's article discussed judicial restraint in matters of religious relief.

On this, CJI Kant said, "We respect all eminent persons, jurists, etc., but personal opinion is personal opinion."

Kaul said if knowledge and wisdom come from any source, any country, any university, it should be welcomed.

"We are far too rich as a civilisation not to accept all forms of knowledge and information," Kaul said.

In a lighter vein, Justice Nagarathna said, "But not from WhatsApp University." Kaul said he was not getting into that.

Kaul said he is not into "which university is good or bad", which is really inconsequential to this debate. He emphasised that the point is simply that wherever knowledge and information come from, they must be accepted.

Trump reposts letter calling India, China 'hellholes'

WASHINGTON

US President Donald Trump has reposted a controversial letter on his platform, Truth Social, that refers to countries such as India and China as "hellholes" while arguing against birthright citizenship in the United States.

In the reposted text, the author criticises the policy of granting automatic citizenship to those born on US soil.

It claims that such provisions allow immigrants to establish a foothold in the country through childbirth, suggesting that a child born in the US becomes an "instant citizen" and can later enable extended family members to migrate.

The write-up situates the argument within the ongoing debate over birthright citizenship, asserting that the issue should be decided by American citizens rather than the courts.

It also targets legal institutions and advocacy groups, including the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), alleging that they influence policies that enable illegal immigration and place strain on public systems.

Further, the letter claims that immigrants take advantage of welfare and healthcare services, particularly in states such as California, and links these assertions to broader cultural and economic concerns.

It also calls for action under laws against the ACLU and urges stronger measures from the Trump administration.

We've seen some reports: MEA

NEW DELHI: The Ministry of External Affairs on Thursday responded to US President Donald Trump sharing a post calling India, China, a 'hellhole on the planet'. MEA Spokesperson Randhir Jaiswal said, "We've seen some reports. That's where I'll leave it." Further, talking about the India-US trade deal, Jaiswal said a team from India went to Washington DC for negotiations. "These engagements are ongoing and constructive. Both sides are working towards a balanced, mutually beneficial and forward-looking trade agreement, taking into account each other's concerns and priorities, and to reach a trade target of US $500 bill by 2030."

Woman held for killing lover after jealousy over ex-girlfriend: police

BENGALURU:

Police have revealed a disturbing motive behind the killing of a 29-year-old man, allegedly murdered by his partner in northwest Bengaluru after tensions over his renewed contact with a former girlfriend. The accused, 27-year-old Prema, allegedly killed LN Kiran at her residence in Anjananagar under Byadarahalli police limits. Investigators said the two, who worked together at a mobile service store in Rajajinagar, were in a relationship that had recently turned strained. According to police, Prema was keen on marriage, but Kiran had begun distancing himself. Matters escalated when she reportedly discovered photographs of him celebrating his ex-girlfriend's birthday. Officials said this triggered anger and jealousy, leading her to plan the crime.

Rs 410 crore fake tax receipt racket busted; key accused arrested

Massive inter-state fraud network used shell firms and bogus invoices

BENGALURU

Enforcement officers of the Southern Zone Commercial Tax Department have unearthed a massive ₹410 crore fraud involving fake tax receipts across multiple states, leading to the arrest of a key accused.The accused, Tauqeer alias Mohammed (42), was apprehended and produced before the Special Economic Offences Court, which remanded him to 14-day judicial custody. Officials said he was part of a wider network operating across Karnataka, Andhra Pradesh and Tamil Nadu.Investigations revealed that the group set up dozens of shell companies using forged documents and fake identities. These entities generated bogus tax invoices without any actual supply of goods, enabling fraudulent claims of input tax credit and causing significant losses to the government exchequer.According to officials, the accused used fake rental and lease agreements to obtain business registrations. They allegedly created sole proprietorships and LLPs using stolen PAN and Aadhaar details, subsequently securing GST registrations based on fabricated credentials.Once registered, the network generated invoices for materials such as cement, iron bars, zinc sheets and pipes. These invoices were circulated among multiple shell entities—categorised as service providers, intermediaries and end buyers—to create a layered trail of transactions. Authorities found that several bank accounts were opened in the names of unsuspecting individuals to facilitate fund movement. The accused would rotate fake invoices across these accounts to claim illegitimate input tax credits, inflating transaction volumes without actual trade.

Officials said the fraud amount detected so far stands at ₹410 crore, including approximately ₹102.5 crore claimed through fake input tax credits. The network operated with precision, cancelling company registrations whenever authorities raised suspicion and restarting operations under new entities.

The racket not only defrauded the government but also misled contractors and traders who unknowingly became part of the fraudulent chain.Further investigation is underway to identify other members of the network and trace financial links. Authorities indicated that more arrests are likely as they continue to unravel the full scale of the operation and recover diverted funds.

BENGALURU

Near-record temperatures over the past few days have put Bengaluru's power infrastructure under strain, triggering a rare substation failure that briefly disrupted Cauvery water supply to parts of the city.

Officials said a line breaker at the 220 kV station in Somanahalli experienced a flashover, affecting power supply to the pumping station at Tataguni. The disruption impacted operations of the Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board (BWSSB), leading to a temporary interruption in water supply.

Engineers attributed the incident to extreme heat conditions, with temperatures at Somanahalli reaching around 37°C. The heat-induced stress caused damage to the B-phase current transformer, resulting in oil leakage due to thermal expansion.

A BWSSB engineer described the incident as rare, noting that while electrical faults are not uncommon, such a failure directly linked to heat stress had not previously been recorded at the site. The flashover created a high-voltage arcing situation, posing potential risks to equipment and personnel.

Technical officials said the breaker system failed to detect the fault in time, allowing the situation to escalate. However, response teams acted swiftly to contain the damage. The affected section was isolated, leaked oil was drained safely, and the damaged transformer component was replaced.

BWSSB Chairperson V Ram Prasath Manohar said the disruption was an outcome of extreme weather conditions and praised the prompt action of engineers in restoring operations.

Water supply was affected in several areas between 12:30 pm and 3 pm on Wednesday while repair work was carried out. Supply was subsequently restored once the system stabilised.

Absenteeism, duplication and rising costs plague Census house-listing exercise

BENGALURU

The ongoing house-listing phase of Census 2027 is facing serious setbacks in Bengaluru, with widespread absenteeism among field staff, duplication of work and mounting costs raising concerns over data integrity.

Officials said that of the 26,616 personnel deployed—including 23,700 enumerators and 2,900 supervisors—nearly 6,000 are absent without authorisation. Each enumerator is assigned around 200 households, but many have reportedly failed to complete even basic enumeration tasks.

A senior Bengaluru North City Corporation official noted that extreme heat and the absence of residents during daytime visits have led several enumerators to avoid fieldwork altogether. Despite this, some have allegedly claimed completion and received payments, triggering administrative concerns.

The situation has resulted in multiple blocks being reassigned due to incomplete or untouched surveys. Replacement enumerators, who are paid approximately ₹5,000 per month, have in several cases repeated the same pattern—leaving assignments midway or failing to complete them. As a result, some blocks are being handled by up to three different enumerators, even as work on the ground remains unfinished.

Nearly 6,000 staff absent as survey lapses trigger delays and cost escalation

In several cases, partially covered or untouched blocks have been reassigned, but replacement enumerators often repeat the same lapses, leaving surveys incomplete.

Officials from the Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA), which is overseeing the exercise across the city's five corporations, admitted that such lapses have led to duplication of surveys and, in some cases, nearly threefold expenditure. They warned that inconsistencies and missing records are increasingly being reported, putting the credibility of the entire exercise at risk.

GBA Chief Commissioner Maheshwar Rao has taken a strict stance, stating that accountability will be enforced and no blanket exemptions will be allowed. The issue has also drawn attention from employees with disabilities, some of whom have sought relief from field duties. While limited exemptions have been granted in specific cases, broader requests remain under review.

With the census exercise scheduled between April 16 and May 15, officials cautioned that unless immediate corrective measures are implemented, both public funds and the reliability of collected data could be severely compromised.

Funds released for milk societies to build own facilities: Somashekar

BENGALURU

MLA S T Somashekar said funds have been released under the MLA grant to help milk producer cooperative societies construct their own buildings across the constituency.

He was speaking at the 25th anniversary celebrations of the Gonipura Milk Producers' Cooperative Association under K Gollahalli Gram Panchayat in the Yeshwantpur Assembly segment. Emphasising support for farmers, Somashekar said the initiative aims to strengthen grassroots dairy infrastructure and ensure societies function independently in permanent premises.

The MLA criticised major political parties, alleging they had failed to genuinely support farmers despite making promises. He said governments often express concern but do not deliver meaningful relief, adding that farmers continue to face challenges that need consistent policy attention.

Highlighting welfare measures, Somashekar said low-interest loan facilities have been extended to farmers, while women's self-help groups are being provided zero-interest loans. He added that women's empowerment remains a priority in development initiatives.

Bangalore Milk Union (BAMUL) Director KM Krishnaiah said the cooperative sector plays a crucial role in supporting farmers by addressing their issues and ensuring government benefits reach them directly.

Local leaders and members of the cooperative sector attended the event, including association president Shivarudraiah and other office-bearers. Officials reiterated that strengthening cooperative institutions will improve livelihoods and create better opportunities for rural communities.

The move to provide dedicated infrastructure for milk societies is expected to enhance operational efficiency and support long-term growth in the dairy sector across the constituency.

FUEL SUPPLY STABLE IN KARNATAKA DESPITE GLOBAL TENSIONS, SAY OIL FIRMS

BENGALURU

Fuel supply across Karnataka remains stable despite geopolitical tensions in West Asia, with oil marketing companies assuring uninterrupted availability of petrol, diesel and LPG.

Public sector firms including Indian Oil Corporation, Bharat Petroleum and Hindustan Petroleum said there is no shortage of fuel in the state and that all retail outlets are functioning normally.

Officials highlighted that Karnataka has a robust petroleum infrastructure, including a refining capacity of 15 MMTPA and multiple storage terminals and depots in key locations such as Bengaluru, Mangaluru and Hubballi. This network ensures smooth transportation and consistent distribution across regions.

The LPG supply chain is also well established, with 12 bottling plants and over 1,200 distributors catering to consumers. Around 7,500 fuel stations operate across urban, rural and highway areas, providing widespread accessibility.

Authorities noted that a brief surge in LPG bookings was recorded in March due to panic buying. However, demand has since stabilised, and delivery timelines are steadily improving.

Digital adoption has increased significantly, with most LPG bookings now made through online platforms. The Delivery Authentication Code system has further strengthened transparency and accountability in cylinder distribution.Officials said special efforts are being made to supply smaller 5-kg cylinders to economically weaker sections and migrant workers. In addition, commercial LPG supply is being prioritised for essential services such as hospitals, schools and transport sectors.The state is also expanding cleaner energy infrastructure, including CNG outlets and electric vehicle charging stations, as part of long-term energy planning.

BENGALURU

White-topping work on Hennur-Bagalur Road is set to be completed by June 15, with officials stating that major carriageway works will conclude by May, followed by footpath and utility works over the next three months.

Greater Bengaluru Authority Chief Commissioner Maheshwar Rao inspected the project site and directed officials to speed up execution. He instructed deployment of additional workforce and simultaneous development of buffer zones and footpaths alongside the ongoing roadwork.

The project, covering a 5.5-km stretch from Hennur Cross to Bagalur Cross, was initiated in April 2025 with an 11-month deadline. However, officials said progress was delayed due to phased traffic clearances. Work had to be carried out in limited stretches, with only a quarter portion of the road available at a time, and primarily during night hours.

A senior B-SMILE official said that each completed stretch had to be reopened to traffic before work could proceed on the next section, slowing overall progress. Over the past four months, authorities have allowed work on half the road at a time, significantly improving the pace of construction.

Officials noted that carriageway work is now nearing completion, while development of footpaths and buffer zones has also commenced. The project, estimated at ₹86.29 crore, spans two Assembly constituencies and is expected to ease traffic congestion once fully operational.

So far, approximately 4.2 km on one side and 2.2 km on the other side have been completed. Authorities expressed confidence that the revised timeline will be met, provided there are no further disruptions.

Rs 13.5 cr shooting centre lies idle, students left waiting

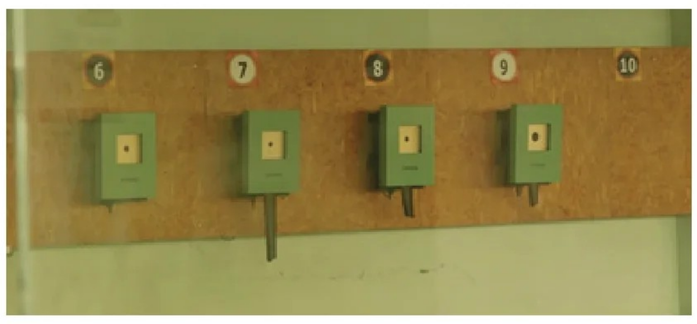
A major sports infrastructure project in Bengaluru, built to nurture young talent, has come under scrutiny for remaining unused years after completion, leaving aspiring shooters disappointed.

The shooting training centre located in Chennammanakere Achchukattu, under Basavanagudi constituency, has stayed closed to the public despite being inaugurated in December 2022 by former Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai. Constructed at a cost of ₹13.5 crore, the facility had raised expectations among students and parents, particularly in south Bengaluru.However, more than a year after its formal launch—and nearly four years since completion—the centre has seen no regular activity. Locals say the infrastructure has remained largely idle, denying budding shooters access to a dedicated training space.



The facility includes a 10-metre indoor air gun shooting range equipped for professional training. Despite this, the premises are reportedly lying unused, with equipment left unattended and gathering dust. Residents allege that the inauguration has remained largely symbolic, with no follow-up to operationalise the centre.Parents and students in the area have expressed frustration over the delay, noting that such facilities are crucial for developing sporting talent at the grassroots level. Many believe that access to a proper shooting range could open pathways for competitive training and participation at state and national levels.Civic observers have also raised concerns about the planning and execution of such projects, pointing out that building infrastructure without ensuring its utilisation results in wastage of public funds.

DK, Udupi top SSLC exams with record 98% results

MANGALURU

Dakshina Kannada and Udupi districts have delivered record-breaking performance in the SSLC exam-1 results, securing the top two positions in Karnataka with pass percentages of 98.4% and 98.18% respectively.

Dakshina Kannada retained the state's top rank for the second consecutive year, with 26,771 of 27,207 students clearing the examination. The district recorded its highest pass percentage in the last 12 years, reflecting strong academic consistency and improved student outcomes. In comparison, 2025 saw a lower pass percentage of 91.12%, making this year's result a significant improvement.

Udupi district secured second place in the state, with 13,129 students passing out of those who appeared for the exam. Only 244 students failed, marking a notable improvement over the previous year. The district had earlier secured first place in 2024 before moving to second position last year and maintaining it this year with improved performance.

Education officials attributed the success to focused preparation strategies implemented throughout the academic year 2025–26. These included structured revision plans, teacher training programmes, and multiple state-level preparatory examinations conducted by the Karnataka School Examination and Assessment Board (KSEAB).

- Dakshina Kannada tops SSLC exam with 98.4% pass rate
- Udupi secures second place with 98.18% pass percentage
- Intensive preparation and revision plans boosted student performance
- KSEAB support materials and mock exams improved results
- Teachers' focused training for slow learners reduced failures

Authorities also introduced dedicated student support resources, including online question banks, model papers, and answer sheets. Teachers from both districts conducted special sessions for slow learners, focusing on important questions identified from the study materials.

Deputy Directors of Public Instruction from both districts praised teachers for their efforts in reducing failure rates and improving academic outcomes. Officials noted that although some students could not appear for the exam, overall performance showed a strong upward trend driven by systematic academic planning.

UDUPI

Drug trafficking and consumption cases in the Manipal area of Udupi district are currently under control and being closely monitored, according to the Superintendent of Police, Udupi district.

At a district-level NCORD (Narcotics Coordination) meeting held in December 2024, a review of drug-related cases revealed that nearly 90% of incidents in the district were earlier concentrated in the Manipal region, as stated by then District Collector K. Vidyakumari.

NCORD meetings are conducted every month under the chairmanship of the District Collector, where various departments are assigned specific targets to strengthen enforcement and awareness activities.

Recent data indicates a significant improvement, with the share of cases in Manipal reportedly reducing from 90% in 2024 to around 30% at present.

Authorities have attributed this decline to coordinated efforts between police, educational institutions, and local administration. Colleges and schools in Manipal have been instructed to regularly conduct awareness programmes on drug abuse prevention.

Initiatives include counselling sessions for students with low attendance and their parents, workshops, formation of "Anti-Drug Awareness Committees" in PU and degree colleges, and monthly pledge-taking activities on the first day of every month in educational institutions. In addition, cultural activities such as street plays and discussions have been organised to spread awareness.

The introduction of anonymous reporting mechanisms through QR codes has also helped in identifying and addressing cases more effectively.

Officials said these combined measures have contributed to bringing the situation under better control, while continued vigilance and awareness campaigns will be necessary to sustain the progress.

Heatwave grips Chikkamagaluru, temperatures soar beyond normal

CHIKKAMAGALURU

Usually known for its cool climate, this hill district attracts a large number of tourists during summer. Visitors come here to enjoy the refreshing weather and spend relaxing days. However, this year, the situation has changed drastically. The region is experiencing intense heat, leaving even those indoors sweating.

The temperature in Chikkamagaluru has crossed its usual limits. Typically, the maximum temperature here ranges between 28°C and 29°C. But this time, due to changing weather patterns, the heat has become severe. The temperature has risen to 32°C, 33°C, and even 34°C, making life uncomfortable for residents.

Chikkamagaluru faces unusual heatwave with temperatures rising up to 34°C, disrupting daily life and raising concerns over water shortage and health impacts.

The scorching heat has created a situation where people are afraid to step outside their homes. Even in this traditionally cool Malnad region, it has become difficult to get through the day without fans or air conditioning.

In previous summers, occasional light showers would occur, helping to keep the temperature under control. These intermittent rains would cool the environment. However, this year, rainfall has been sparse and limited to only a few areas, resulting in increased ground heat. Unable to bear the rising temperatures, people are using umbrellas and handheld fans while stepping out.

Local resident Rajesh expressed concern, stating that the heat has severely affected daily life. Not only common people but also daily wage workers are struggling to go to work. Children and the elderly are particularly vulnerable to the extreme conditions. He also warned that if the situation continues, animals and birds may face serious water shortages in the coming days.

Strict CET rules in Karnataka lead to unusual incident at Chikkamagaluru exam centre during student screening process.

CET exam strict rules cause student distress

CHIKKAMAGALURU

The 2026 Karnataka Common Entrance Test (CET), conducted by the Karnataka Examinations Authority (KEA), began across the state, with strict enforcement of rules regarding metal accessories leading to inconvenience for several girl students.

At MES College in Chikkamagaluru, students were stopped at the entrance during security checks as they were wearing nose pins and other metal ornaments, which are prohibited inside examination halls. In an unusual incident, when some students were unable to remove their nose pins, staff reportedly placed adhesive tape over their noses to allow them entry into the exam hall.

The strict enforcement of rules caused dissatisfaction among parents and candidates, while the situation briefly created confusion among students under exam stress. However, officials maintained that the measures were taken to ensure compliance and smooth conduct of the examination.

Despite the incident, the examination proceeded without any disruption, with heavy police deployment ensuring order around the centre.

In Ballari district, CET exams are being conducted at 10 centres with 6,667 students appearing. Strict frisking was carried out before entry, and students were asked to remove earrings, chains, and other ornaments. Most candidates arrived without jewellery, ensuring smoother entry procedures.

The CET exam, conducted for admission into engineering, agriculture, veterinary and other professional courses, is being held on April 23 and 24. Kannada language tests for border and out-of-state Kannada candidates were conducted on April 22.

On April 23, Physics and Chemistry exams were held, while Mathematics and Biology exams are scheduled for April 24. Authorities have implemented CCTV surveillance and webcasting across all 745 centres to prevent malpractice, with district officials monitoring the process closely.

Laser speed cameras deployed to curb highway violations

MANGALURU

In an effort to reduce traffic violations and improve road safety, the police in Mangaluru have introduced advanced laser-based speed gun cameras on highways across the city and its outskirts. This move comes amid a rising number of road accidents, particularly due to overspeeding.

The police department had already installed surveillance cameras and implemented measures such as speed limits and traffic signboards along National Highways 66 and 73. Accident-prone "black spots" have also been identified and clearly marked. Taking enforcement a step further, authorities have now adopted 'laser track' speed gun technology to enhance monitoring.

These devices use laser beams to accurately measure the speed of moving vehicles in real time. If a vehicle exceeds the permitted speed limit or violates traffic rules, the system automatically captures important details such as the vehicle's image, registration number, speed, and time of the offence. Additionally, video evidence is recorded, making it easier to issue e-challans with strong proof.

One of the major advantages of these laser-based cameras is their ability to detect vehicle speeds from a considerable distance with higher accuracy than traditional handheld speed guns. In accident-prone areas, the devices are mounted on tripods and operated by traffic personnel to monitor vehicles effectively.

Auto LPG supply resumes in Udupi, easing drivers' woes

UDUPI

The supply of auto LPG has resumed in Udupi after several days of disruption, bringing much-needed relief to auto-rickshaw drivers who were struggling due to the shortage. Drivers were seen lining up at LPG pumps to refill their vehicles.

Approximately 7,000 litres of LPG was supplied on the first day, offering temporary respite. Authorities have indicated that additional supply will be arranged based on demand in the coming days. The shortage had severely impacted the livelihoods of many drivers, forcing them to switch to petrol, which significantly increased their fuel expenses and reduced their daily earnings.

In some cases, drivers had even stopped operating their auto-rickshaws and taken up alternative daily wage jobs to cope with the financial strain. The disruption in LPG supply was linked to the ongoing conflict in the Middle East, which affected imports and led to shortages in several regions, including Udupi.

With the restoration of supply, drivers have expressed relief, but they remain concerned about the consistency of availability. They have urged authorities to ensure a stable and uninterrupted supply to avoid similar hardships in the future.

Meanwhile, long queues of auto-rickshaws outside LPG stations have raised concerns about traffic congestion. Local residents have requested the deployment of traffic police personnel to manage the situation and prevent inconvenience to other road users.

Karnataka raises university pension funding share

Karnataka increased university pension funding to 70%, easing financial burden and improving institutional stability and functioning

HUBBALLI

Higher Education Minister M.C. Sudhakar announced that the Karnataka government has increased its share of funding for pension expenditure in state universities from 50% to 70% to ease the rising financial burden on institutions.

Speaking at the 75th annual convocation of Karnatak University in Dharwad on Thursday, the minister said the revised arrangement aims to reduce pressure on universities caused by growing pension liabilities. Under the new system, the state government will bear 70% of pension costs, while universities will cover the remaining 30% through their own internal resources.

Dr. Sudhakar said the decision will help universities manage their finances more efficiently and ensure smoother academic functioning without financial stress.

He also announced a new scholarship programme aimed at increasing the enrolment of girl students in higher education. The scheme, launched in collaboration with the Azim Premji Foundation, will provide annual scholarships ranging from ₹30,000 to ₹36,000 to girls who have completed SSLC, I PUC, and II PUC in government institutions. The government has allocated a total fund of ₹2,000 crore for this initiative and has assured additional support if the number of applicants exceeds expectations.

To improve job opportunities for students, the minister said a "Campus to Career" job fair will be held in Bengaluru on May 15 and 16. The event is designed to connect educational institutions with industry partners and enhance employability.

He further highlighted the government's efforts to promote global exposure for students through the SCOUT programme. Political exchange escalates after Kharge's comment on Prime Minister

MANGALURU

A fresh political exchange has emerged following remarks attributed to Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge about Prime Minister Narendra Modi, with Dakshina Kannada MP Brigadier Brijesh Chowta criticising the statement.

The MP said that comments directed at a democratically elected leader should reflect the dignity of the office and the mandate of the electorate. He described the language used as unacceptable and said it lowered the standards of political communication.

He also stated that leaders in responsible positions should prioritise policy discussions over personal remarks. According to him, such statements divert attention from governance issues and contribute to polarisation in public discourse.

The MP further alleged that recent political developments have intensified confrontations between the ruling party and the opposition, leading to increasingly sharp exchanges.

The development comes at a time when both the BJP and Congress have been engaged in frequent verbal clashes across the country. Political observers note that such incidents highlight the need for restraint and constructive engagement among political leaders. No official response from the Congress side was immediately available. Analysts say such episodes often reinforce partisan divides while limiting space for substantive debate.

He was speaking after inaugurating a training session on "Quality Improvement–Export Promotion: Good Agricultural Practices and Processing of Pepper, Arecanut and Cocoa Crops" organised by KEPEC Institute Bengaluru in association with Dakshina Kannada Zilla Panchayat at the Netravati Hall.

He stressed that along with cultivation, attention must be given to processing, packaging, identifying buyers and building market links to ensure better income through exports. He added that training programmes are being conducted to help farmers adopt good agricultural practices and improve export readiness.

Zilla Panchayat Chief Executive Officer Narwade Vinayak Karbhari said Dakshina Kannada's focus on horticulture makes it a strong income source for farmers. He said the training will also guide farmers on setting up small food processing units and understanding export procedures.

KEPEC Managing Director C.N. Shivaprakash said the institute is working under the guidance of the Agriculture Department to strengthen food processing and value addition of crops like pepper, arecanut and cocoa. He noted that government schemes, including subsidies for food processing units, are available and should be utilised effectively by farmers.

He added that farmers can receive financial support for setting up units and are encouraged to approach agriculture departments and banks with proper project reports.

Officials from the Commercial Tax Department, Lead Bank and other institutions also shared information about financial assistance and export opportunities during the programme. The event highlighted the importance of modernising agriculture to improve farmer income through global market access and value-added production.

HHRC orders probe into student suicides at NIT-K

The Commission has expressed alarm over a series of suicides and attempts occurring within a short period on campus

CHANDIGARH

The Haryana Human Rights Commission (HHRC) has initiated a detailed inquiry into multiple suicide incidents reported at National Institute of Technology Kurukshetra, raising serious concerns over student safety and mental health support systems.

Taking suo motu cognizance based on media reports and preliminary findings, the commission has expressed alarm over a series of suicides and attempts occurring within a short period on campus. The incidents have prompted questions regarding institutional accountability and the adequacy of mental health infrastructure available to students.

According to reports, a first-year student recently attempted suicide by jumping from the fifth floor of a hostel building. The student was rescued in time and hospitalized. Earlier, on April 16, a second-year student was found dead in his hostel room, sparking protests among fellow students who alleged delays in the administration's response.

The situation appears to be part of a troubling pattern, with at least two other student deaths reported in February and March, followed by another incident on April 8. The recurrence of such cases has intensified scrutiny of the institute's handling of student welfare.

The commission, led by Chairperson Lalit Batra and members Kuldip Jain and Deep Bhatia, noted that actions taken by the institute so far appeared limited. Measures reportedly included the transfer of two professors, which the commission suggested was insufficient given the gravity of the situation.

The most recent suicide attempt on April 18 has further underscored concerns that existing interventions are neither adequate nor effective. The commission observed that the incidents may point to gaps in counselling services, mental health support systems, monitoring mechanisms, and crisis response protocols within the institution.

Highlighting the broader responsibility of educational institutions, the commission stated that their role extends beyond academics to safeguarding the physical and mental well-being of students. It noted that the recurrence of such incidents raises serious concerns under Article 21 of the Constitution of India, which guarantees the right to life, dignity, and mental well-being.

The inquiry is expected to examine systemic shortcomings and recommend measures to prevent further incidents, as authorities face growing pressure to ensure a safer and more supportive campus environment.

BJP rule rooted in zero tolerance stance on terrorism

BANASKANTHA

He claimed that earlier administrations relied largely on statements, whereas the current approach focuses on decisive action

Jagdish Vishwakarma on Thursday emphasized the resilience of party workers and criticized opposition parties while addressing a public gathering in Palanpur ahead of upcoming local body elections.

Speaking at a Vikas Sankalp Sabha, Vishwakarma referred to incidents of political violence in West Bengal and Kerala, alleging that workers of the Bharatiya Janata Party had faced severe attacks, including killings, in those regions.

Despite such challenges, he said party members remained committed to strengthening the organization and continuing their engagement with the public.

He stated that BJP workers maintain year-round contact with citizens and actively participate in public service, contrasting this with opposition leaders whom he claimed are visible only during election periods. Targeting the Indian National Congress, Vishwakarma alleged that the party has lost public trust due to a lack of clear policies, leadership, and intent.

The Gujarat BJP chief also highlighted welfare initiatives undertaken by both the central and state governments. He pointed to relief measures for farmers affected by unseasonal rains, including a ₹10,000 crore assistance package and procurement of crops worth ₹15,000 crore at minimum support prices. According to him, these funds have been directly transferred to farmers' bank accounts under the leadership of Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel.

On national security, Vishwakarma said there has been a significant shift in the government's response to terrorism under BJP leadership. He claimed that earlier administrations relied largely on statements, whereas the current approach focuses on decisive action. Referring to measures such as surgical and air strikes, he reiterated that a zero-tolerance policy toward terrorism remains central to the BJP's governance approach.

The event forms part of the party's campaign efforts as it seeks to consolidate support ahead of local elections in Gujarat, with leaders highlighting governance achievements and organizational strength to appeal to voters.

Chowdhury alleges EVM glitch during Bengal polling

MURSHIDABAD

Amid the first phase of Assembly elections in West Bengal, Congress leader Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury on Thursday alleged repeated malfunctioning of Electronic Voting Machines (EVMs) at a polling booth in Berhampore, causing long delays for voters.

Chowdhury, who is contesting from the Berhampore constituency, told reporters that the issue had been ongoing since early morning at booth number 141. According to him, despite multiple complaints, the problem persisted even after the machines were replaced. He said the malfunction had forced voters to wait for hours under intense heat, leading to frustration and inconvenience.

I have been receiving complaints since morning about repeated EVM failures. Although replacements were made, the situation has not improved, he said. He further stated that he had formally lodged complaints with election authorities, including the Chief Electoral Officer, and had also approached the District Magistrate for intervention.

Chowdhury added that while officials had assured corrective action and promised to send technical teams, effective resolution had not been achieved at the time of his visit. He said he was compelled to personally inspect the polling station due to the lack of progress.

The Congress leader highlighted the hardships faced by voters, especially women, who continued to stand in long queues despite the extreme weather conditions. He noted the absence of basic arrangements such as shade or seating, which added to the difficulties for those waiting to cast their votes.

People are standing for hours in the heat, and many are returning home without voting. Women, in particular, are enduring tough conditions but are determined to vote due to concerns about future rights, he said.

A woman voter at the polling station echoed these concerns, stating that she had been waiting for nearly two hours without any clarity on when the voting process would resume smoothly. She described the situation as frustrating and disorganized, citing repeated announcements about machine malfunctions.

The incident has raised concerns about polling arrangements and the smooth conduct of elections in the constituency, as authorities work to address the technical issues and ensure that all voters are able to exercise their franchise.

The court grants interim relief to Bose, allowing him to defer his appearance before the ED until the ongoing Assembly polls

HC grants relief to Sujit Bose from ED summons

KOLKATA

The Calcutta High Court on Thursday granted interim relief to Sujit Bose, allowing him to defer his appearance before the Enforcement Directorate until after the ongoing Assembly elections.

The court's decision came while hearing a petition filed by Bose, who had sought more time to respond to multiple summons issued by the Enforcement Directorate in connection with a municipal recruitment corruption case. Justice Krishna Rao ruled that Bose would not be required to appear before the agency immediately and can present himself only after the election process concludes, with a specified date of May 1.

Over the past few days, the central agency had summoned Bose several times for questioning. However, the minister cited his involvement in election campaigning and requested extensions through written communication. He subsequently approached the High Court seeking relief from immediate appearance.

Bose, a three-time MLA from the Trinamool Congress, is contesting the Assembly elections from the Bidhannagar constituency, aiming for re-election. Another minister, Rathin Ghosh, who is also under investigation in the same case, has been contesting from the Madhyamgram constituency. Both constituencies are scheduled to vote in the second phase of polling on April 29.

The Enforcement Directorate has been actively investigating the alleged irregularities in municipal recruitment. In October 2023, Ghosh was questioned by the agency, and his residence was searched as part of the probe. Similarly, Bose has been under scrutiny, with raids conducted at his office and residence in January 2024 and again in October 2025. The agency also searched premises linked to some of his close associates.

The High Court's order provides temporary relief to Bose during a crucial phase of the election campaign while ensuring that the investigation proceeds after the polls. The case continues to draw political attention, given its timing and the involvement of key leaders ahead of the Assembly elections in West Bengal.

Modi announces 10-point guarantee for Bengal women

He asserted that those who opposed measures aimed at empowering women would face consequences in the ongoing elections

KOLKATA

The announcement comes as part of the Bharatiya Janata Party's campaign strategy to strengthen its outreach among women voters in the state.

Speaking at a public gathering in Krishnanagar, the Prime Minister sharply criticized the Trinamool Congress and the INDIA bloc, accusing them of obstructing the Women's Reservation Bill in Parliament.

He asserted that those who opposed measures aimed at empowering women would face consequences in the ongoing elections.

Highlighting the importance of women's safety and economic independence, Modi said that the proposed guarantees would be implemented on the ground if the Bharatiya Janata Party forms the government in West Bengal. He emphasized strict action against crimes targeting women, stating that perpetrators would be punished without delay. As part of strengthening law enforcement, he promised the establishment of women's police stations in every block and increased recruitment of women into the police force.

The Prime Minister also announced direct financial assistance initiatives, including an annual transfer of Rs 36,000 to women's bank accounts. In addition, financial support of Rs 50,000 would be provided to girls pursuing graduation, while pregnant women would receive Rs 21,000. To ensure better nutrition for children, an additional Rs 36,000 support package was also proposed.

Further outlining welfare measures, Modi said that schemes such as the Sukanya Samriddhi Yojana would be strengthened to secure the future of daughters. Under the Pradhan Mantri Mudra Yojana, women would be eligible for loans of up to Rs 20 lakh to promote self-employment and entrepreneurship. He added that large numbers of women would be encouraged to become financially independent under the Lakhpati Didi initiative.

The Prime Minister also highlighted healthcare and housing benefits, stating that under the Ayushman Bharat Yojana, women would receive free medical treatment up to Rs 5 lakh. Additionally, houses under the Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana would be registered in the name of women to ensure financial security and ownership rights.

Raj Guv flags concern over abandoned stray bulls

Public-govt joint intervention essential to ensure proper care and protection of these animals

JAIPUR

Highlighting the seriousness of the situation, the Governor stressed that abandoned bulls pose challenges not only to urban and rural management but also to animal welfare. He pointed out that coordinated efforts, including community participation and government intervention, are essential to ensure proper care and protection of these animals.

Bagade emphasized initiatives such as fodder donation drives and the use of cow shelters to provide safe refuge for abandoned bulls. He noted that the Government of Rajasthan has already been running special campaigns focused on their protection and welfare. In addition, he mentioned a dedicated scheme that encourages farmers to rear bulls and utilize them in agricultural activities. Under this initiative, eligible farmers receive annual financial assistance of Rs 30,000, which aims to promote sustainable livestock management.

During his visit to Bijorawas village, the Governor attended the consecration ceremony of a Shiv Temple located within the Baba Bishah Temple complex. On the occasion, he performed traditional rituals and prayers, seeking peace, prosperity, and well-being for the people of the state.

Addressing the gathering, Bagade spoke about the spiritual significance of Lord Shiva, describing him as a symbol of knowledge and positivity who dispels ignorance and negativity. He emphasized the importance of preserving cultural traditions and passing them on to future generations.

The Governor highlighted the need for young people to remain deeply connected to their heritage and values, stating that cultural continuity plays a crucial role in building a strong society. He added that while modern education is important, it should be complemented with a deep understanding of cultural roots and ethical values.

Reiterating his message, Bagade urged communities to actively participate in both cultural preservation and social responsibility initiatives, including the care and protection of abandoned animals.

'West Asia conflict blight on humanity with no winners'

New Delhi

South African High Commissioner to India, Anil Sooklal, has urged the international community to encourage parties involved in the West Asia conflict to remain engaged and find peace for the good of humanity. Sooklal said that war in West Asia is having a very negative impact on the world, especially in terms of energy security. He reiterated Prime Minister Narendra Modi's statement that now is not the time for war. He expressed optimism that a positive outcome is quite possible if the peace talks are held between the United States and Iran. We have to remain optimistic because that's the need of the hour. The war, if it continues, is going to have a devastating effect on all of us. It's already had a very negative impact, especially in terms of energy security, but it also impacts on all other sectors of our lives.

INDIA-QATAR PLANS TO DEEPEN TRADE, INVESTMENT TIES

NEW DELHI

Union Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal on Thursday held a virtual meeting with Qatar's Minister of State for Foreign Trade Affairs Ahmed bin Mohammed Al Sayed to explore ways to strengthen bilateral trade and investment ties in the backdrop of rising geopolitical uncertainties.

During the high-level interaction, both sides focused on expanding economic cooperation and building resilient supply chains to navigate the challenges of an evolving global trade landscape. The discussions highlighted the importance of collaboration between India and Qatar in ensuring stable and sustainable trade partnerships.

Goyal stated that the meeting centered on deepening trade engagement and enhancing investment opportunities between the two countries. He emphasized the need to strengthen supply chain resilience, especially at a time when global disruptions continue to impact trade flows. Expressing optimism about future prospects, the minister said he looked forward to further strengthening the strategic partnership with Qatar in the coming years.

The talks come as India continues to actively engage with key global partners to expand its economic footprint. Earlier this month, India also held discussions with Oman regarding the proposed Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement (CEPA). Goyal had spoken with Oman's Minister of Commerce, Industry and Investment Promotion, Anwar bin Hilal bin Hamdoun Al Jabri, to explore avenues for boosting bilateral trade and investment under the agreement.

Separately, the minister revealed that progress is being made on the proposed India-United States bilateral trade agreement. He noted that the first tranche of the agreement is close to finalisation, with a team of Indian officials currently in Washington engaged in negotiations. The aim is to secure preferential market access for Indian goods in the US compared to competing countries.

Trade discussions between India and the United States have recently been impacted by developments in the US legal system, including the Supreme Court's decision to strike down sweeping reciprocal tariff measures introduced during the tenure of former President Donald Trump. As a result, meetings between chief trade negotiators of the two countries have been rescheduled.

Officials believe that continued dialogue with key international partners such as Qatar, Oman, and the United States will play a crucial role in strengthening India's global trade position and ensuring long-term economic growth.

NCB strengthens inter-agency collab to combat drug trafficking

AHMEDABAD

The meeting of the Joint Coordination Committee (JCC) for Gujarat was chaired by NCB Deputy Director General (Western Region) Maneesh Kumar, bringing together officials from several major agencies.

Representatives from the Border Security Force, Indian Coast Guard, National Investigation Agency, Intelligence Bureau, Directorate of Revenue Intelligence, Customs, Income Tax Department, Railway Protection Force, Gujarat Anti-Narcotics Task Force, and the Food and Drugs Control Administration participated in the discussions.

According to officials, the meeting emphasized the importance of comprehensive investigations into drug-related cases. This includes financial tracking, identification of terror links, and dismantling large trafficking syndicates. A total of 50 priority cases have been identified by the Gujarat Anti-Narcotics Task Force for focused monitoring and coordinated action.

Authorities stressed the need for stronger inter-agency collaboration through real-time intelligence sharing, regular data exchange, and joint interrogation in inter-state cases. Advanced tools such as the Financial Intelligence Unit and NATGRID are also being utilized to track key accused individuals, repeat offenders, and organized networks involved in drug trafficking.

The NCB, in a statement shared on X, highlighted that the quarterly state-level JCC meeting in Ahmedabad was aimed at strengthening coordination among drug law enforcement agencies to effectively address emerging narcotics challenges.

The development comes shortly after Amit Shah commended the NCB for securing convictions against 73 drug offenders during the first quarter of 2026. He stated that the government is committed to dismantling drug cartels and ensuring strict legal action to protect the youth from the dangers of narcotics.

Between January and March 2026, the NCB achieved convictions in 35 cases. Among those convicted, four individuals received the maximum sentence of 20 years, while 54 others were awarded sentences of 10 years or more. Additionally, fines totaling Rs 1.22 crore were imposed.

Officials reiterated that continued coordination and intelligence-driven operations remain crucial in the fight against drug trafficking, as agencies work together to curb the growing threat and safeguard society.

SC slams Chhattisgarh police over order violation

NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court has taken strong exception to the failure of the Chhattisgarh authorities to ensure the presence of a respondent despite a clear direction, and summoned the Superintendent of Police, Korba, to appear in person with a show-cause explanation.

A bench of Justices Ahsanuddin Amanullah and R. Mahadevan expressed displeasure over a blatant and deliberate violation of its order after being informed that respondent No. 2 – Chandra Kumar Jaiswal @ Buttu — was not present in the top court despite a clear direction requiring his appearance on April 20.

We take strong exception to such conduct of the State of Chhattisgarh, the Justice Amanullah-led Bench observed, adding that the direction to ensure the respondent's presence had been unequivocal.

The apex court was hearing a Special Leave Petition (SLP) filed by Chatt Kunwar Sarthi challenging the August 28, 2024, judgment of the Chhattisgarh High Court, which set aside the conviction of Jaiswal, alias Butu, in a rape case and acquitted him of all charges.

Recounting the sequence of events, the bench recorded that on March 23, the matter was directed to be listed on April 15 with instructions to the state government to produce respondent no. 2. Although the respondent was reportedly brought to the top court premises on April 15, the matter could not be taken up due to the Constitution Bench sitting.

The bench had, thereafter, made it clear that the respondent must remain present on the next date.

Today, we are informed that the respondent no.2 is not present in Court, the apex recorded in its order passed on April 20.

Taking a serious view of the lapse, the Supreme Court said the Superintendent of Police, Korba, would have to explain the circumstances leading to non-compliance.

We find that the Superintendent of Police, Korba, is required to show cause as to why the court may not pass appropriate orders against him for such blatant and deliberate violation of the direction of this Court, the order said.

The Justice Amanullah-led Bench directed the Superintendent of Police, Korba, to remain personally present before the top court on April 24 at 10:30 a.m. along with a show-cause reply. It further ordered that respondent no. 2 must also be physically produced on the next date of hearing.

I-PAC's Chandel remanded to 14-day judicial custody

NEW DELHI

A Delhi court on Thursday sent Indian Political Action Committee (I-PAC) co-founder Vinesh Kumar Chandel to 14 days' judicial custody in connection with a money laundering probe linked to an alleged coal pilferage case.

The order was passed by Additional Sessions Judge Dhirendra Rana of the Patiala House Courts, who directed that Chandel remain in custody till May 7 following the expiry of his Enforcement Directorate custody.

Earlier in the day, the court issued notice to the ED on Chandel's bail plea and sought its response, listing the matter for hearing on April 29. Previously, on April 14, another court had remanded him to ED custody for 10 days. Additional Sessions Judge Shefali Barnala Tandon had allowed custodial interrogation till April 23.

Chandel was arrested in connection with an ECIR registered on March 28, based on an FIR by the Economic Offences Wing, alleging criminal conspiracy, cheating, and falsification of accounts involving I-PAC. The ED alleged that he played a key role in generating and laundering illicit funds, including routing money through cash and banking channels and introducing ₹13.50 crore as unsecured loans without formal agreements.

ADVISORY TO TRAVELERS

NCB cautions Indian citizens on Maldives' anti-drug laws

NEW DELHI

In view of the Maldives adding more teeth to its anti-drug laws, the Narcotics Control Bureau (NCB) on Thursday advised Indian citizens to avoid carrying to the island any package, baggage or item on behalf of others without being sure of the contents.

In an advisory issued ahead of the summer vacation season, the NCB cautioned Indian citizens travelling to or visiting the Maldives regarding the recent strengthening of anti-narcotics laws in that country and educated them against unknowingly becoming couriers for drug traffickers.

The NCB said in a statement that the recent legislative amendments to the Maldives' Drugs Act, effective from March 2026, prescribe significantly enhanced penalties for drug-related offences, including life imprisonment and, in certain cases involving large-scale trafficking, the death penalty, subject to confirmation by the competent court under the Maldivian law.

The amended law provides stricter punishment even for possession of small quantities of prohibited substances, the central agency added.

Recent instances have been reported involving foreign nationals, including Indian citizens, being arrested in the Maldives for drug-related offences.

In this regard, High Commission of India in Male has also issued advisories urging Indian nationals to strictly comply with local laws and regulations.

In view of the above, all Indian citizens are strongly advised not to carry any package, baggage, or item on behalf of others under any circumstances without being absolutely sure of the contents, the NCB said.

They are also advised to observe exercise extreme caution at airports, ports, and transit points when approached by unknown requesting carriage of goods, it added.

Advising Indian citizens to always ensure proper supervision of personal baggage, the NCB told them to be mindful of the fact that ignorance of the law is not a defence and any legal violations may result in severe punishments.

Indian citizens are urged to report any suspicious approach or incident at the MANAS National Narcotics Helpline '1933'.

The NCB reiterates its zero-tolerance approach towards drug trafficking and urges all citizens to remain vigilant, responsible, and law-abiding while travelling abroad, the statement said.

MALABO

Pope Leo returns to Rome on Thursday after wrapping up an ambitious four-nation Africa tour in which he forcefully decried the direction of global leadership, denouncing despotism and war, and drew the ire of US President Trump. The first U.S. pope closed the nearly 18,000 km tour with a final Mass in a stadium in Equatorial Guinea, where tens of thousands began gathering in pouring rain before dawn for a last chance to see him. Leo told worshippers in a homily, his 25th speech over the 10-day tour, that the Christian message means every people is set free from the slavery of evil.

Iran war pushing more than 30 million back into poverty

BANGKOK

More than 30 million people will be pushed back into poverty by the impacts of the Iran war including disruptions to fuel and fertiliser supplies just as farmers are planting crops, UN development chief Alexander De Croo said. Fertiliser shortages - worsened by the blocking of cargo vessels through the Strait of Hormuz - have already lowered agricultural productivity, the Administrator of the UNDP. That would likely hit crop yields later this year, the former Belgian prime minister added. Food insecurity will be at its peak level in a few months and there is not much that you can do about it, he said.

LONDON

The partner of Princess Diana's brother has settled her lawsuit against his ex-wife for alleged misuse of private information after she disclosed her diagnosis of multiple sclerosis, London's High Court was told on Thursday. Catrine Jarman, a Norwegian archaeologist, sued the now ex-wife of Charles Spencer, uncle to the heir to the throne, Prince William, and his younger brother Prince Harry, in 2024. Jarman said Karen Spencer had disclosed her MS diagnosis, which she had sought to keep private, to a number of people shortly after Charles Spencer ended their marriage. Karen Spencer accepted Jarman's offer to settle the lawsuit in August, Jarman's lawyer Dina Shiloh said in a statement read at the High Court.

Iran tightens grip over Hormuz post peace talk collapse

Iran has demonstrated its growing control over the Hormuz by releasing dramatic footage of commandos seizing cargo ships, following the breakdown of crucial peace negotiations with the US

DUBAI

Iran state television aired striking visuals showing masked Iranian forces boarding a large cargo vessel, identified as the MSC Francesca.

The footage captured commandos arriving in speedboats, scaling the ship's hull using rope ladders, and entering with weapons drawn.

The video, styled with an action-film soundtrack and lacking commentary, also showed another vessel, the Epaminondas, which Iran claimed to have seized for allegedly attempting to cross the strait without proper authorization.Iranian officials stated that both ships were detained as part of newly enforced maritime regulations.

Vice-Speaker Hamidreza Hajibabaei announced that Iran had begun collecting tolls from vessels using the strait, with initial revenues already transferred to the Central Bank. However, he did not disclose details about the payments or the parties involved. Judiciary Chief Gholamhossein Mohseni-Ejei asserted that the targeted ships had faced the law, signaling a firm stance on enforcement.

The developments come after the collapse of peace talks that had aimed to reopen the vital shipping route, through which nearly one-fifth of global oil and liquefied natural gas supplies typically pass. Iran has effectively restricted access to the strait since February, when conflict escalated involving the United States and Israel. Tehran has insisted it will not reopen the route until Washington lifts its blockade on Iranian shipping, which it considers a violation of the ceasefire.

Meanwhile, US President Donald Trump refrained from resuming military action at the end of the ceasefire but has not agreed to lift the blockade, leaving the situation unresolved.

Residents in Tehran described a tense atmosphere, with uncertainty over potential renewed conflict. Despite the breakdown in talks, Pakistan, which had hosted earlier negotiations, remains engaged with both sides in an effort to revive diplomatic efforts and prevent further escalation.

US hosts talks as Lebanon seeks ceasefire extension with Israel

BEIRUT

The upcoming meeting comes amid renewed tensions, just a day after Israeli airstrikes in southern Lebanon killed at least five people, including journalist Amal Khalil.

The U.S.-mediated ceasefire, which took effect on April 16, has significantly reduced violence but has failed to completely halt hostilities. The agreement is set to expire on Sunday, raising concerns about a potential escalation.

Marked the deadliest day in Lebanon since the ceasefire began. Lebanese officials confirmed casualties from Israeli strikes, highlighting the fragile nature of the truce. Hezbollah, which is backed by Iran, has maintained that it retains the right to resist what it describes as occupation by Israeli forces in southern Lebanon.

Hezbollah lawmaker Hassan Fadlallah stated that the group supports extending the ceasefire but only if Israel fully complies with its terms. Speaking at a televised press conference, he criticized direct negotiations with Israel and urged the Lebanese government to avoid any face-to-face engagement.

The conflict reignited on March 2, when Hezbollah launched attacks in support of Iran amid a broader regional war. Since then, nearly 2,500 people have been killed in Lebanon, according to official estimates. Israel has established a buffer zone extending several kilometers into southern Lebanon, claiming it is necessary to protect northern regions from rocket fire.

Israel's military has also warned residents of southern Lebanon against entering the occupied zone. Meanwhile, Hezbollah reported carrying out multiple operations in response to Israeli strikes, signaling that tensions remain high despite the ceasefire.

Lebanese President Joseph Aoun has instructed the country's envoy, Ambassador Nada Moawad, to push for an extension of the ceasefire during the Washington talks. Beirut is also expected to demand an end to Israeli demolitions in southern villages and advocate for a full Israeli withdrawal.

Beirut is intensifying diplomatic efforts as the United States prepares to host a second round of talks between Lebanese and Israeli envoys, with a focus on extending the fragile ceasefire between Israel and Hezbollah.

Lebanese officials emphasize that extending the ceasefire is essential before advancing to broader negotiations, which could include border delineation and the return of detainees. Meanwhile, diplomatic efforts continue as regional and international stakeholders seek to prevent further escalation in the conflict.

17 INJURED AS 2 TRAINS COLLIDE IN COPENHAGEN

COPENHAGEN

The accident occurred early in the morning on a railway line connecting the towns of Hillerod and Kagerup.

Authorities reported that approximately 38 passengers were on board the two trains when they collided shortly before 6:30 am.

Emergency services described chaotic scenes inside the carriages, with shattered glass and severe structural damage visible on both trains.

Images from the scene showed two yellow and grey trains facing each other in a wooded area, both heavily damaged at the front. Fire and rescue service leader Christoffer Buhl Martekilde said the impact caused extensive destruction and sent debris flying through the compartments.

Rescue operations were launched immediately, with 18 emergency vehicles and 47 personnel dispatched to the site. All passengers were safely evacuated from the trains, and officials confirmed that no one was trapped. The injured were transported to nearby hospitals using ambulances and helicopters, as emergency teams worked to stabilize the situation.

Police stated that it was too early to determine the cause of the collision and confirmed that a thorough investigation would be conducted. Authorities are expected to examine factors such as signaling systems, track conditions, and operational procedures.

The incident drew international attention, with Swedish Prime Minister Ulf Kristersson reaching out to Denmark's leadership to offer assistance. Acting Danish Prime Minister Mette Frederiksen acknowledged the support as emergency efforts continued.

Rail accidents are relatively rare in Denmark, but the country has experienced serious incidents in the past. The most severe railway disaster in recent years occurred in 2019, when a train struck an obstacle during a storm, resulting in multiple fatalities. A separate accident in 2025 also led to casualties after a train derailed following a collision with a vehicle.

Authorities have urged the public to avoid speculation as investigations continue, emphasizing that determining the exact cause will take time.

US moots expanding refugee intake for white South Africans

WASHINGTON

The administration of Donald Trump is weighing plans to significantly increase the number of refugees admitted into the United States, with a particular focus on white South Africans, according to sources familiar with internal discussions.

The proposal under consideration would more than double the current annual refugee cap of 7,500 by adding up to 10,000 additional slots, primarily for Afrikaners; white South Africans of European descent.

This move follows an earlier executive order issued shortly after Trump took office in January 2025, which paused most global refugee admissions while prioritizing Afrikaners, citing claims of race-based persecution in South Africa. The South African government has strongly rejected these allegations.

The U.S. Refugee Admissions Program, established in 1980 to assist people fleeing conflicts such as those in Vietnam and Cambodia, has historically served a broad range of displaced populations. However, under current policies, it has largely been used to resettle white South Africans, marking a significant shift in humanitarian priorities.

Data from the State Department indicates that around 4,500 South Africans have already been admitted as refugees in the first half of the fiscal year, putting the administration on track to exceed its existing cap. In contrast, only three refugees from other countries specifically Afghanistan have been admitted during the same period.

The administration has not officially confirmed the expansion plan. A State Department spokesperson stated that any changes to the refugee ceiling for fiscal year 2026 would be announced at an appropriate time, describing current figures as speculative.

The policy has drawn attention due to its historical and political context. During the apartheid era, which ended in 1994, South Africa enforced a system of racial segregation that privileged the white minority.

Italy may scale back defence spending amid economic pressures

ROME

Rome has signaled potential changes to its defence spending strategy as mounting economic challenges and rising energy costs strain public finances, according to a new government budget document.

The government of Giorgia Meloni is facing increasing fiscal pressure after revising down economic growth forecasts while raising projections for budget deficits and public debt. The updated outlook reflects the impact of surging energy prices and instability linked to the Middle East conflict.

Italy's Treasury outlined these concerns in its multi-year budget plan, warning of limited fiscal flexibility as the country prioritizes support for households and businesses grappling with higher energy costs. Economy Minister Giancarlo Giorgetti stated that the government may need to reassess spending priorities, including planned increases in defence expenditure.

Italy had previously committed, alongside other European members of NATO, to significantly boost defence spending following calls from Trump to raise it to 5% of GDP by 2035. In the short term, Rome's 2026 budget included plans to increase defence spending by 0.5% of GDP by 2028.

Woman gets 14-yr jail for treason in Russian-controlled Ukraine

MOSCOW

A court in Russian-controlled southern Ukraine has sentenced a woman to 14 years in prison on charges of treason after she purchased war bonds to support Ukrainian forces, highlighting the ongoing tensions in territories under Russian control.

The verdict was delivered by the Zaporizhzhia District Court, operating under Russian authority in occupied areas. According to officials, the woman used a Ukrainian mobile application to buy government-issued war bonds worth approximately 270,080 roubles, equivalent to around $3,600. Authorities stated that she was detained by Russia's federal security agency, the FSB.

The court identified the accused only by the initial B and described her as a Russian citizen. However, in territories seized during the ongoing conflict, residents have often been compelled to adopt Russian citizenship to maintain access to essential services such as healthcare, pensions, and property rights.

King Charles to visit US amid strained UK-US relations

LONDON

King Charles III will travel to the United States next week for the most significant overseas visit of his reign, aiming to reinforce the long-standing alliance between the two nations despite rising political tensions.

The four-day state visit marks the 250th anniversary of American independence from British rule, a historic milestone dating back to 1776 when 13 colonies broke away from King George III, an ancestor of King Charles.

The visit is expected to highlight the evolution of relations between the two countries, which have since developed deep military, economic, and cultural ties.

However, the trip comes at a challenging time. Relations between Britain and the United States have reached their lowest point in decades, with tensions reminiscent of the Suez Crisis. Disagreements have intensified following the Iran conflict, particularly after U.S. President Donald Trump publicly criticized British Prime Minister Keir Starmer for not supporting military action.

Despite these tensions, the visit is being framed as a reaffirmation of enduring ties beyond political differences. Former British ambassador to Washington, Nigel Sheinwald, emphasized that the trip is focused on long-term relations between the people and institutions of both nations rather than current political disputes.

Charles will be accompanied by Queen Camilla and is scheduled to begin the visit with a private meeting with President Trump. The itinerary includes an address to Congress, a formal state dinner, and visits to New York and Virginia, underscoring the importance of diplomatic and cultural engagement.

The visit has also attracted controversy back in Britain. Some political figures have questioned whether the trip should proceed given recent remarks by Trump.

Match-winning knock came on tricky pitch, says Jadeja

All-rounder credits patience, smart targeting for Rajasthan Royals' crucial victory surge

LUCKNOW

Ravindra Jadeja admitted that conditions were far from easy despite playing a match-winning role as Rajasthan Royals defeated Lucknow Super Giants by 40 runs in their Indian Premier League 2026 clash.

Reflecting on his composed 43 off 29 balls, Jadeja said the red-soil surface made stroke-making difficult due to variable bounce and seam movement. "When I was batting, it wasn't that easy out there," he noted, adding that building partnerships required patience and awareness. He emphasised the need to rotate strike while choosing the right moments to attack in T20 cricket.

Jadeja revealed a clear tactical approach during the death overs, particularly against express pacer Mayank Yadav. He said he capitalised on shorter boundaries and field placements to maximise scoring opportunities, ensuring Rajasthan posted a competitive 159/6 despite regular wickets.

In reply, Lucknow never found momentum and were bowled out for 119 in 18 overs. The Royals' bowling unit delivered a disciplined performance, led by Jofra Archer (3/20) and Nandre Burger (2/27), while support came from Brijesh Sharma. Jadeja also contributed with a key wicket, dismissing Nicholas Pooran at a crucial stage.

Speaking about his bowling, Jadeja said he deliberately varied his pace on a two-paced wicket. He observed that batters like Mitchell Marsh and Pooran struggled against slower deliveries that held up on the surface. "It's about reading conditions and adapting," he explained, underlining his flexible role in the side.

Jadeja also addressed his bowling workload, stating that completing his full quota depended entirely on team requirements.

IPL 2026

Starc cleared for IPL return, set to boost Delhi Capitals on May 1

NEW DELHI

Mitchell Starc has been cleared by Cricket Australia to return to the Indian Premier League, with the left-arm quick expected to feature for Delhi Capitals in their clash against Rajasthan Royals on May 1.

Starc has been sidelined since January due to elbow and shoulder niggles, missing the initial phase of the tournament. His return comes as a major boost for Delhi, who currently sit fifth on the points table with three wins and three losses from six matches.

The 36-year-old was last seen in action during Australia's victorious The Ashes campaign, where he played all five Tests and earned the Player of the Series award. He then featured briefly in the Big Bash League for Sydney Sixers before being ruled out to manage his injuries.

Australian pacer's comeback offers timely strength as Delhi eyes crucial turnaround

According to reports, Starc is currently building up his workload in India and is on track to make his IPL 2026 debut in the upcoming fixture. His presence is expected to significantly strengthen Delhi's pace attack, especially given his impact in the previous season, where he picked up 14 wickets in 11 matches and emerged as the team's leading fast bowler.

Starc's absence earlier had sparked debate around the participation of overseas players in the IPL. Responding to criticism, the Australian pacer had taken to social media to clarify his situation, stating that he was undergoing rehabilitation and managing injuries sustained during the Australian summer. He also criticised what he described as "misinformed opinions" regarding his commitment and fitness.

Meanwhile, other Australian stars are also making their way back into the IPL. Captain Pat Cummins is set to appear for Sunrisers Hyderabad, while Josh Hazlewood has already resumed duties for Royal Challengers Bengaluru after missing early matches.

RCB pacer ends legal battle, expressing regret and willingness to move forward amicably

NUWAN THUSHARA WITHDRAWS CASE, apologises to SLC over IPL 2026 dispute

COLOMBO

Nuwan Thushara, the fast bowler associated with Royal Challengers Bengaluru, has withdrawn his legal case against Sri Lanka Cricket after a dispute over a No Objection Certificate (NOC) for participation in the Indian Premier League 2026 season.

Thushara had earlier approached court alleging that Sri Lanka Cricket refused to issue him an NOC, citing concerns over fitness test results. However, during proceedings on Thursday, his legal counsel informed the district court that the player no longer wished to pursue the matter as most IPL matches this season were already underway.

Following this submission, the court accepted the withdrawal of the case. Thushara also issued an apology to Sri Lanka Cricket, expressing regret over the escalation of the issue and indicating his willingness to maintain a positive relationship with the board going forward.

The right-arm pacer, who has represented Sri Lanka in 30 T20 internationals since 2022, was expected to feature for Royal Challengers Bengaluru this season, having previously been part of the franchise setup in the 2024 and 2025 editions of the IPL. The controversy had briefly sparked debate over player availability and national board clearance policies, particularly in relation to franchise commitments versus international obligations. With the matter now resolved, Thushara is expected to focus on returning to competitive cricket without further administrative hurdles.

Trump envoy urges FIFA to swap Iran with Italy for World Cup: Report

WASHINGTON

US special envoy to President Donald Trump has reportedly urged FIFA to consider replacing Iran with Italy at the upcoming FIFA World Cup, according to a report.

The report says the suggestion is linked to broader diplomatic discussions involving the United States, Italy and ongoing geopolitical tensions surrounding Iran, as well as efforts to strengthen relations with Italian leadership.

Officials familiar with the matter said the idea was raised during informal conversations and has not been formally proposed within FIFA structures.

FIFA President Gianni Infantino had earlier stated that Iran remains qualified to participate in the FIFA World Cup 2026 hosted by the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Iranian officials have reiterated that preparations are underway for the national team's participation, despite ongoing diplomatic pressure and external calls for changes to tournament eligibility.

The proposal, as described in the report, has drawn attention due to its unusual nature, as FIFA selection processes are typically governed by qualification results and not political recommendations.

Neither FIFA nor the White House has officially confirmed the envoy's comments, and no formal policy discussion regarding team replacement has been acknowledged by governing bodies involved in World Cup planning.

The Financial Times report further noted that the suggestion is part of broader diplomatic signaling, although analysts have cautioned that such proposals are unlikely to influence official sporting governance.

Discussions around Iran's participation come at a sensitive time, with geopolitical tensions influencing international sporting narratives and increasing scrutiny of global tournament preparations.

Italy, a four-time World Cup winner, has not been part of the qualification pathway controversy and remains one of Europe's most successful footballing nations historically.

The debate has sparked widespread discussion in sports media, highlighting the intersection of politics, diplomacy, and international football governance ahead of the 2026 tournament.

Weeks ahead of the tournament, uncertainty continues to surround administrative decisions, even as preparations for the expanded global competition move forward across host nations.

FIFA officials are expected to maintain focus on qualification rules while avoiding political influence in final World Cup squad determinations as the process remains strictly performance based according to report.

Captaincy debate intensifies at SRH as Cummins return fuels leadership question

HYDERABAD

The leadership debate at Sunrisers Hyderabad has gained momentum after strong performances under Ishan Kishan, with former cricketer Harbhajan Singh suggesting the franchise should persist with the young captain even after the return of Pat Cummins.

Kishan has guided SRH to four wins in seven matches in the ongoing Indian Premier League 2026 season, including a recent victory over Delhi Capitals in Hyderabad, helping the side climb to third place on the points table.

Ishan Kishan's strong run as skipper sparks discussion over Pat Cummins' future role

Cummins, who missed the early phase of the season due to a lower back injury, is now back with the squad and is expected to feature in the upcoming clash against Rajasthan Royals. His return has triggered discussions over whether leadership should revert to the Australian pacer, who previously led SRH to the final in 2024.

However, Harbhajan Singh has strongly backed continuity in leadership under Kishan. Speaking on JioHotstar's Champions Waali Commentary, he argued that SRH should not disrupt a system that is currently working well. He pointed out that the team has developed strong coordination under Kishan's leadership and warned against changing direction mid-season.

Harbhajan also acknowledged Cummins' past contributions but stressed that current form and team balance should guide decisions. His comments followed similar support from former coach Sanjay Bangar, who praised Kishan's tactical awareness and calm decision-making under pressure.

SRH's season under Kishan has seen early inconsistency, including losses to Royal Challengers Bengaluru, Lucknow Super Giants, and Punjab Kings. However, the team has since bounced back strongly with three consecutive wins over Rajasthan Royals, Chennai Super Kings, and Delhi Capitals.

KANE AND DIAZ FIRE BAYERN MUNICH INTO GERMAN CUP FINAL AFTER LEVERKUSEN WIN

LEVERKUSEN

Bayern Munich booked their place in the DFB-Pokal final with a commanding 2-0 victory over Bayer Leverkusen, powered by goals from Harry Kane and Luis Diaz.

The win marks Bayern's return to the German Cup final for the first time since 2020, ending their longest absence from the showpiece in Berlin in over two decades. The Bavarian giants, who hold a record 20 cup titles, kept their hopes of a treble alive following their recent Bundesliga success.

Kane broke the deadlock after 17 minutes, reacting quickest inside the box after a well-worked move involving Jamal Musiala and Diaz. The England captain finished emphatically after the ball slipped past the Colombian forward.

Leverkusen, the 2024 cup winners, attempted to respond through counter-attacks, with Nathan Tella forcing a sharp save from Manuel Neuer early in the second half. However, Bayern remained in control for most of the contest, limiting the hosts' clear chances.

Goalkeeper Mark Flekken kept Leverkusen in the game with several important saves, denying Kane and Diaz multiple times as Bayern pushed for a second goal to kill the tie.

The breakthrough moment came deep into stoppage time when Diaz finally got his reward, converting a pass from Leon Goretzka. The goal was initially ruled offside but was later awarded after a VAR review, confirming Bayern's passage to the final.

Speaking after the match, Kane expressed delight at reaching Berlin, describing it as a major objective for the team this season. He praised the squad's resilience in navigating a difficult knockout run, highlighting the importance of grinding out results in tough away fixtures.

Leverkusen, despite reaching their third consecutive semi-final, struggled to match Bayern's intensity on the night and were unable to replicate last season's success against the German champions.

With this win, Bayern continue their pursuit of a historic treble and will now prepare for the final, where they will face either VfB Stuttgart or SC Freiburg in Berlin.

Teen star injured while scoring penalty, raising concerns ahead of major tournament

World Cup worry for Spain as Lamine Yamal limps off injured for Barcelona

BARCELONA

Lamine Yamal sparked fresh concern ahead of the FIFA World Cup after suffering an injury during FC Barcelona's 1-0 win over Celta Vigo in La Liga.

The 18-year-old forward scored the only goal of the match from the penalty spot in the 40th minute but immediately showed signs of discomfort, clutching the back of his left leg. He quickly signalled to the bench and went down in visible pain even as teammates gathered to celebrate.

Yamal was able to walk off the pitch unassisted after receiving medical attention on the field. He later spoke briefly with Barcelona head coach Hansi Flick before heading into the tunnel alone, raising further concerns about the extent of the injury.

Barcelona did not issue an immediate update on the severity of the problem, stating that further medical evaluation would take place on Thursday. The uncertainty comes at a crucial time for both club and country, with Yamal expected to make his World Cup debut for Spain in June.

Teammates expressed concern after the match, with midfielder Gavi describing the situation as a "real blow" for the team and hoping the youngster recovers quickly. Another midfielder, Pedri, added that Yamal should remain calm and allow time for recovery given his age and importance to the squad.

Barcelona also suffered another injury setback in the match, with defender João Cancelo forced off with an apparent right leg issue in the first half.

Despite the injury concerns, Barcelona managed to secure all three points and extend their lead at the top of the La Liga table to nine points over second-placed Real Madrid, who won their match against Alavés earlier in the week.

The club now awaits medical reports on Yamal, with hopes that the injury will not rule him out for an extended period as the World Cup approaches.

Cong-era FTA with Korea poorly negotiated: Goyal

The Union Commerce and Industry Minister alleged that the deal created imbalance and widened India's trade deficit

NEW DELHI

Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal on Thursday criticised the India–South Korea Free Trade Agreement (FTA) signed during the Indian National Congress rule, calling it "poorly negotiated" and unfavourable to India.

In a post on social media platform X, Goyal said the trade pact signed in 2009 and implemented in 2010 led to a 92.7 per cent rise in bilateral trade, but India's imports from South Korea rose by 103.7 per cent, increasing the trade deficit.

He said the agreement did not benefit India and claimed the current government has taken steps to correct the imbalance. Goyal noted that in 2015, Prime Minister Narendra Modi and South Korea's President agreed to begin talks to amend the India–Korea Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement.

He said eleven rounds of talks have already taken place, and both countries are now working toward a more balanced partnership. The revised agreement is expected to be completed by the end of 2026 or by mid-2027.

Goyal also said efforts to increase local manufacturing by Korean firms in India are showing results. He highlighted a joint venture between JSW Steel and POSCO to build a steel plant in Odisha with an investment of Rs 35,000 crore.

He added that several agreements were signed to improve trade, clean energy cooperation, supply chains, and MSME support.

- Bilateral trade rose 92.7% but India's imports surged 103.7%, widening deficit
- Renegotiations launched in 2015, with 11 rounds and an Early Harvest Package
- New JV between JSW Steel and POSCO for Rs 35,000 crore

Goyal said the government's goal is to ensure fair trade, strengthen local industries, and protect national interests through balanced global partnerships.

'AI brings risks, openings for fintech sector'

'India's economy remains strong, with GDP growth estimated at 7.6% for 2025-26'.

NEW DELHI

Banking Secretary highlights AI's dual role in fintech, urging responsible use while noting strong growth, financial inclusion gains, and India's rising global leadership in digital payments.

India's fintech sector is entering a new phase marked by higher expectations, growing risks, and complex systems, said M Nagaraju, Secretary of the Department of Financial Services, on Thursday.

Speaking at a fintech conference organised by FICCI, he described artificial intelligence as both a threat and an opportunity for the industry. He urged companies to use AI responsibly while exploring its full potential.

Looking ahead to Vision 2030, Nagaraju said AI will support financial inclusion by enabling smarter credit assessment. Tools using digital data like transactions, GST records, and telecom inputs can help lenders reach first-time borrowers and small businesses with better risk control.

He added that India's economy remains strong, with GDP growth estimated at 7.6 per cent for 2025-26. Banking sector health has also improved, with gross non-performing assets falling to 2.2 per cent and credit growth rising sharply.

Financial inclusion continues to expand through schemes like Pradhan Mantri Jan Dhan Yojana, which has opened nearly 58 crore bank accounts. Other initiatives such as Pradhan Mantri Mudra Yojana and PM SVANidhi have supported small businesses and street vendors. Nagaraju also highlighted the success of Unified Payments Interface, which handled over 22 billion transactions last month, making it the world's largest real-time payment system.

He said India's digital and financial progress positions it strongly for future growth, but stressed that responsible innovation will be key to balancing risks and opportunities in fintech.

'Bikaji' founder Agarwal passes away

NEW DELHI

Shiv Ratan Agarwal, founder of Bikaji Foods International, passed away, leaving behind a strong legacy in India's ethnic snacks industry.

Agarwal began his journey in the late 1980s in Bikaner, aiming to build his own identity beyond his family business. He took on the challenge of producing bhujia on a large scale at a time when suitable technology was not available. To achieve this, he travelled globally to develop methods that maintained the authentic taste of traditional snacks.

The brand "Bikaji" reflects cultural roots, inspired by Bika Rao, founder of Bikaner, along with a respectful suffix. Agarwal focused on taking Indian snacks to a wider audience while preserving traditional flavours.

Over the years, Bikaji grew from a regional brand into a national and international name, offering a wide range of products including bhujia, namkeen, sweets, and papad. The company now operates multiple manufacturing units across India, including facilities in Rajasthan, Assam, Karnataka, and other regions.

Dadashreeji proposes gross peace index at Global Summit

NEW DELHI

A global summit in London saw leaders discuss solutions while India highlighted peace-based progress ideas.

The fifth Commonwealth Trade and Investment Summit 2026 was held at Mansion House in London, bringing together leaders, ministers, and business figures from 56 nations. Organised by the Commonwealth Enterprise and Investment Council, the event focused on global challenges and cooperation across economies.

The summit, themed "Commonwealth Solutions to Global Challenges," included discussions on artificial intelligence, sustainable energy, infrastructure, health technology, and finance. It also featured closed-door meetings aimed at practical outcomes.

Representing India, spiritual leader Maitreya Dadashreeji delivered a talk titled "India - Leadership Through Change to Prosperity." He presented a unique view, stressing that real progress depends on inner balance, trust, and unity rather than only economic growth.

He introduced the idea of a "Gross Peace Index," suggesting countries should be measured not just by economic output but also by peace, trust, and social harmony.

He said such an approach could guide global partnerships and investments toward stability.

Maitreya Dadashreeji also urged leaders to move from power-focused governance to purpose-driven leadership. He said compassion and shared values are essential for long-term global progress.

The Commonwealth, with a population of about 2.7 billion, continues to serve as a major platform for collaboration among emerging and developed economies.

His proposal received attention at the summit, adding a new perspective to discussions usually focused on trade and economic growth. Experts noted that combining economic strength with social harmony could help create more balanced and sustainable development worldwide.

Hynix warns of prolonged HBM supply crunch

SEOUL

SK hynix has warned that demand for high-bandwidth memory (HBM) will exceed supply for at least the next three years, even as the company posted record-breaking quarterly earnings driven by strong artificial intelligence demand.

The chipmaker reported its highest-ever quarterly sales of 52.6 trillion won, while operating profit surged 405 per cent to 37.6 trillion won. Revenue crossed 50 trillion won for the first time, and operating margins rose sharply to 72 per cent, reflecting strong market conditions.

Company officials said the memory market is seeing a sustained upcycle, supported by demand for HBM, server DRAM, and enterprise solid-state drives. Despite the first quarter usually being a slower period, investments in AI infrastructure kept demand high.

Executives noted that supply constraints continue to limit the company's ability to meet all customer orders. As a result, buyers are focusing more on securing supply volumes rather than negotiating prices, pushing memory prices higher.

The company said wider use of long-term agreements could help stabilise demand and reduce the industry's usual price swings. It also highlighted that AI technology is evolving rapidly, increasing the need for advanced memory solutions across different applications.

SK hynix plans to introduce next-generation HBM4E samples later this year and begin mass production by 2027. It is also expanding its production capacity, including faster development of new facilities in Yongin to meet future demand.

Officials added that emerging technologies like advanced processing units will support, not replace, existing memory systems. A hybrid model combining different technologies is expected to drive continued demand for high-performance memory products in the coming years.

INDIA-GERMANY STRESS OPEN TRADE AMID WEST ASIA CRISIS

AHMEDABAD

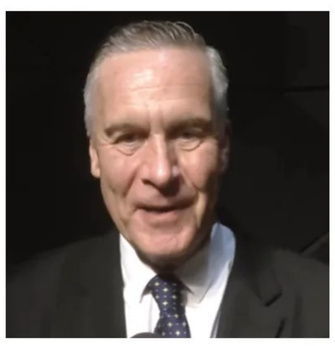
India and Germany must keep markets open and supply chains stable amid the ongoing West Asia crisis, said Jan Noether, Director-General of the Indo German Chamber of Commerce.

He said both countries depend heavily on free shipping routes, especially through the Strait of Hormuz, for transporting oil, gas, and essential goods. Disruptions in this route have affected trade flows and increased pressure on global supply chains.

Noether noted that the impact is already visible in Germany, where fuel and daily commodity prices have risen.

He said such disruptions quickly lead to higher costs for consumers and businesses.

He stressed that both India and Germany, as large economies, rely on free trade and strong business cooperation.



Ensuring smooth movement of goods is essential to maintain economic activity and partnerships.Noether also expressed hope for a political solution to ease tensions in the region. He said stability in global markets depends on resolving conflicts and restoring confidence in trade routes. His remarks come as global trade faces challenges due to geopolitical tensions, affecting energy supplies, pricing, and overall economic stability.

India Germany Urge Stable Trade Routes

India and Germany have called for keeping global markets open and supply chains stable amid the ongoing West Asia crisis. Indo German Chamber of Commerce Director-General Jan Noether said both nations rely heavily on secure shipping routes, especially the Strait of Hormuz, for transporting oil, gas, and essential goods. Disruptions have already impacted trade flows and increased global supply pressure. He noted rising fuel and commodity prices in Germany, warning that such shocks quickly affect businesses and consumers.

'EAC to PM focuses on policymaking, not crisis handling'

NEW DELHI

Nilesh Shah said the Economic Advisory Council to the Prime Minister mainly acts as a "sounding board" for policymaking and does not handle daily crisis management.

In an interaction, Shah explained that the council supports the Prime Minister with policy inputs, unlike full-time institutions such as NITI Aayog or the Chief Economic Advisor's office. He said the council includes both full-time and part-time members, with most research handled by full-time members and the chairman.

He noted that the council meets regularly, about once every two weeks among members and twice a year with Narendra Modi, along with additional meetings when required. During periods of uncertainty, consultations may increase, but the focus remains on long-term policymaking rather than immediate crisis response.

Shah highlighted key contributions of the council, including efforts toward simplifying processes and improving patent efficiency. He said initiatives like the Jan Vishwas Bill have helped streamline procedures, while patent filings have increased due to improved systems.

He added that his personal role involves sharing insights from financial markets to support policy decisions. Shah also noted that the Prime Minister's Office sometimes seeks inputs from the council on specific policy matters.

His remarks come at a time of global economic uncertainty, where questions are often raised about government response systems. Shah clarified that while the council plays an important role in shaping policies, operational crisis management is handled by other government bodies.

Q-COMMERCE GROWTH

India RTD drinks market set for strong growth

NEW DELHI

India's ready-to-drink non-alcoholic beverage market is set for rapid expansion, driven by changing consumer habits and quick commerce growth.

India's ready-to-drink (RTD) non-alcoholic beverage market is expected to double from about $20 billion in 2025 to nearly $40 billion by 2030, according to a report by Redseer Strategy Consultants. The report highlights that the segment has entered a new growth phase supported by evolving buying patterns.

A major factor behind this rise is the rapid expansion of quick commerce, which has recorded over 100 per cent growth in the RTD category. Consumers are increasingly shifting from planned bulk purchases to instant, need-based buying, especially for beverages.

Despite this growth, India's per capita consumption of RTD drinks remains low at 15–20 litres compared to global levels. Consumption stands much higher in countries like the United States, China, and the United Kingdom, showing strong potential for further expansion in India.

The report also points to rising demand for healthier and functional beverages, including protein drinks, hydration products, and packaged coconut water. The coconut water segment alone accounts for 15–20 per cent of a $900 million category, with a significant share driven by quick commerce platforms.

Quick commerce as a whole is expected to grow from around $4 billion today to nearly $25 billion by 2030, capturing a large share of future demand. Experts say this trend is not limited to seasonal spikes but reflects a long-term shift in consumer behaviour.

Industry experts believe beverages will benefit greatly from these changes, as they are frequently purchased and often driven by impulse. Companies are now being advised to focus on innovation, pricing, and distribution strategies to tap into this expanding market effectively.

Jon Favreau Admits He Misjudged TONY STARK Death Decision

Filmmaker and actor Jon Favreau has said he was initially against the decision to kill Tony Stark in Avengers: Endgame, but later realised the choice was right. Favreau, who played a key role in launching the Marvel Cinematic Universe with Iron Man, admitted he had concerns when directors Anthony Russo and Joe Russo planned the storyline.

Speaking on Jimmy Kimmel Live!, Favreau said he feared audiences, especially those who grew up watching Tony Stark, might find the ending too emotional. However, after watching the final film, he praised how the scene was handled with care and strong storytelling. He said the performances by Robert Downey Jr. and Gwyneth Paltrow added depth and made the moment more powerful. Favreau admitted that he was wrong in his earlier opinion and said the scene left him emotional.

He also revealed that despite Tony Stark's death, Downey is expected to return to the Marvel universe in a new role as Doctor Doom in the upcoming film Avengers: Doomsday. Favreau said he is excited to see how this new character will be presented on screen. Apart from Marvel, Favreau is currently promoting The Mandalorian and Grogu, part of the expanding Star Wars universe. He spoke about the challenges of bringing a television story to the big screen, saying it requires higher production quality, bigger sets, IMAX-style visuals, and advanced effects.
